

The following reviews were omitted from Issue 200. We will add them to the database in a few days along with our usual round of error fixes but we're posting them here now as an interim "fix". If there are more we'll update this thread when we get them:

VIETTI 2008 BAROLO LAZZARITO SERRALUNGA D'ALBA ($135.00) RED 93+

VIETTI 2008 BAROLO ROCHE CASTIGLIONE FALLETTO ($135.00) RED 95

The 2008 Barolo Lazzarito comes across as remarkably primary. Dark red fruit, iron, tar, smoke, wildflowers and minerals are all wrapped around a seriously intense mid-palate and finish. Today the 2008 comes across as a bit tightly wound, but that is the personality of the year. The balance of fruit, structure and oak is superb. Layers of fruit flow through to the firm, authoritative finish. This is impressive juice. Anticipated maturity: 2018-2028.

The 2008 Barolo Rocche shows the best balance of fruit and structure among the 2008 Baroli. Sweet, silky tannins frame expressive dark red fruit in the 2008 Rocche. This is an especially structured, powerful style for the Rocche, and a true testament to the level of conviction at Vietti. The Rocche turns sweeter and more sensual with time in the glass. The tannins possess remarkable finesse. Vietti's Rocche could be used to teach a class on the greatness of the Rocche vineyard. It is dazzling from start to finish. Anticipated maturity: 2018-2033.
